Professor Genevieve G. Shaker and doctoral student Meng-Han Ho have received the 2024 IUPUI Open Education Award for having co-produced and published, "Giving and Volunteering in America," an OER to be used in 100 level Philanthropic Studies courses. The book contains 39 primary sources, exploring the unique giving and voluntary behavior of Americans. The text is used by over 125 students a year across 6 sections. Ease of online access, high quality, topical relevance and the absence of cost to students make this OER an excellent replacement for a traditional textbook.

"Giving and Volunteering in America," is available freely online and published through a Creative Commons license, allowing others to use, share, and modify freely. Read the book with the QR code.

What is OER?

Open Education Resources (OER) are teaching, learning, and research resources that reside in the public domain or have been released under an intellectual property license that permits their free use and re-purposing by others.

Open educational resources include full courses, course materials, modules, textbooks, streaming videos, tests, software, and any other tools, materials, or techniques used to support access to knowledge.
